Abstract: This article is about creating new methods as well as separating them according to student's interests and level. In addition, it refers to how to use effective teaching methods in an appropriate way or using teacher-centered and learner-centered methods during teaching learners.

Key words: method, teacher-centered, learner-centered, teaching, learners.

One of the first and essential things that an education plan is the methods of teaching that they will accomplish in class. Therefore, the way of teaching by educators has a significant effect on learners. There are several kinds of teaching methods. Each of them has a specific goal to guiding a classroom. Mainly, the term "teaching method" is used to management class different ways. One of them is teacher-centered method. In this method, teacher gives directions and lectures which are received by learners due to listening passively. For years, teaching and learning became theories of classroom management, which was signed only behavioral. It's aim to control students' way of acting disciplined (Brophy, 1999). This kind of method was rooted a traditional way of teaching. It has a lot of advantages and efficiency, in fact progress of cooperation, focus on lectures, keep a balance.

Other method is a student-centered method. In this method differs others because of student's role in a center of stage. Teachers and learners can share their opinions, knowledge, and outlooks equal way. During current research, it has known that everyone has a similar method. It is very common, easy and ineffective task for learners. Teaching a foreign language in 45 minutes at school is not enough for learning a target language properly. There are several fantastic methods, which give learners inspiration. It proved that education plays a significant role in development of learners.

One of the most efficient methods is a debate. Method is too helpful to create learner's future, acquire a good knowledge into subject. Learners debate about modern technology. When they talked lesson they should have said particular words, which related to be developed technology. There are some factors that can answer to why teacher select that kind of teaching method, in fact they learn to speak English fluently, they enrich opinions and share each other, it enriches lexical resource.

It can be a sample of a student-centered method. There is another method which was related to a student-centered method. It's more approachable to 5 grade pupils which improve their vocabulary, and also critical thinking, problem solving skills. Moreover, attendance of pupils increase, turn on advantages attitude towards lesson. Because of that, everyone was active during process of lesson. This method is called "who is it?" Pictures are given everyone who should describe their appearance, character and process, which is happening there. At this time, any learners seek to speak something according to their critical thinking, which plays an important role to learn topic.

A teacher-centered approach can be considered a traditional education style. In this, teacher should be responsible to provide learners with a great deal of knowledge and information. Learners listen lesson carefully and make notes. During activities, they try to do exercise alone which are given tasks by teachers. Due to not giving permission, they cannot work tasks together with others. This method is very approachable for introverts characteristics and behavior. Because, they challenge to speak and attend with others. Their communication is not developed but listening is very advanced. Introverts listen subject executively as well as figure out them perfectly. Thus, extroverts are bored the process of listening, making notes and also work alone. They focus on subject more than teacher. Extroverts accomplish tasks together with their partner. If they learn subject with interest and willing, and also according to their characteristic, lesson will be learned perfectly.

The best language teaching strategies: 1.Communicative language teaching. 2.Direct Method. 3. Grammar-Translation.

Communicative language teaching is very known and popular model for English learners. When teacher cannot explain the meaning or definition of English words clearly, she teaches learners with this kind of method. It helps to understand subject by contrasting real-life conditions. It is related to real- life world process.

Direct method. In this language teaching approach, focus on learner not only to think but also speak in that English language.

Grammar- Translation. This is a traditional teaching approach which tends to reading and writing skills instead of speaking skills.
